New Spy Report

The third interim report of the British Commission on the activities of the Wartime Requirements Board, the Foreign Exchange Control Board, the Bank of Canada and in 1945, the Industrial Development Bank. Designated at the head of a group of informants, cover name (thrust).

ISRAEL HALPERIN, formerly attached to the directorate of Canadian Artillery and a worker on secret projects with access to all new discoveries concerning explosives and weapons, cover name (Bacon).

DUNFORD SMITH, member of the micro-wave section of the radio branch of the National Research Council, drew documents from the National Research Council library for the Russians for photographing cover name (Babala).

Incidentally, one entry in Colonel Zolotov's note book says: "I consider it necessary to examine the whole of the library of the Scientific Research Council."

J. S. BENNING, former employee of the department of munitions and supply and in 1942 in the ammunition production branch, credited having supplied seventy different documents to the Russian spy network. Cover name (Foster).

SERGEI K. F. W. WILSHIRE, in past as executive secretary of the Psychological Warfare Committee, armed forces section of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Colonel Zolotov in one note suggested "Poland" he turned over to the NKVD. Moscow replied no, that "Poland" might develop into good cover name (Foster).

ERIC ADAMS is given first place in the third interim report of the Royal Commission on the espionage size that as a member of all the various government boards, which he was attached at various times, "he was secretary of the main espionage committee of the various nations board during the war." One document in Col. Zolotov's handwritten referred to Adams as giving "detailed information about all kinds of industries, plans for the future, supplies detailed, account of assassins, gave materials, did good work, connected with 'Foster', cover name for J. S. Benning.

IN A MAILING LIST sent by Zolotov to Moscow on January 1945, he is credited with a long list of information reports ranging from dispatch of munitions to England to invention of water proofing and correspondence on contracts and companies.

The report says that Miss Kathleen Wilshire, the deputy registrar in the British High Commissioner's office, "stated very frankly, we think, that he (Adams) asked information about her work at the British High Commissioner's office which she gave, not only while he was in Ottawa in 1942, 1943 and 1944, but also in 1945. His meetings with Wilshire took place at pre-arranged places. On one occasion, Adams gave her a letter from Miss Wilshire and Adams was the leader of an Ottawa group and gave him information "in the interests of the Communist party when they met with the others of the group to discuss the theory and practice of socialism and communism and the party program."

THE COMMISSIONERS reported that Adams gave evasive answers to their inquiries "and made no clear denial of the evidence given by Miss Wilshire, taking refuge in his professed view that she has been misled.

PROFESSOR HALPERIN, described as 30 years old and of Russian descent, the commission's report says, operated under Capt. David Gordon Lunan. He is accused of having given information in his capacity as a member of the directorate of artillery in Lunan's Russian Battalion on the Canadian Army Research and Development Establishment, the pilot explosive plant, the ballistics laboratory.

He is also charged with emphasizing particularly as to new explosives. He also promised, says the report, to get information on the "electro-processor," at that time a new device developed by British and Canadian scientists and manufactured by Americans. Later he produced the general principles of its operation.

THIS DEVICE, said the commissioners' report, "developed by co-operation between the United Kingdom, the United States and Canada, was one of the most devastating weapons used in the Japanese war, and is of such a secret nature that we have been asked by the military authorities not to report with more particularity than this."

Halperin, says the commission report, "kept a notebook in which he recorded the names of all telephone numbers of Adams, Boyer, Nightingale, Rose, Shagor and Poling—other suspects named in previous interim reports."

He was brought into direct contact with Lieut-Col. Rogov, Russian assistant military attaché, air, "Smith did not admit participation," says the report, "but a great deal of the evidence he would not deny. A document containing notes, formulae and drawings, established to be in the handwriting of Smith" were produced by Gouzenko. Smith admitted the handwriting was his but he gave no explanation for presence of the documents in the embassy. "He himself furnished to the embassy his picture and a letter of introduction to the commission on him," says the report.

The commission's report produces the text of a telegram sent August 27, 1945, by Colonel Zolotov to "the director," Moscow, which says: "WE HAVE RECEIVED FROM Gouzenko (cover name) a number of documents" (Smith) seventeen absolutely secret documents (British, American and Canadian) on the question of magnetic radio locators for field artillery, three secret scientific research journals of 1942. Altogether about 700 pages. In the course of the day we were able to photograph all the documents with the help of the Leica and the photofinder. In the next few days we will receive almost the same amount of documents for 2 to 3 hours and with one film we will not be able to do it."

Colonel Zolotov then asked: "What mark about the necessity of photographing the whole library of the scientific research council?"

"The embassy records," says the commission's report, "show that these documents were returned to Smith on August 28."

"We are satisfied," says the report, "on all the evidence, documentary and otherwise, including the evidence of Lunan and Maerall

W. Poland, the royal commission recite his position as an administrative intelligence officer in the RCAP in April, 1945, in the directorate of intelligence, RCAP, headquarters, Ottawa.

AS FROM NOVEMBER 10, 1944, says the report, he was secretary of the armed forces section of the Wartime Information Board, and from May, 1945, was executive secretary of the Psychological Warfare Committee.

He sat at all meetings of the committee, carried out its directions in prisoner of war camps, directives issued by the political intelligence department passed through his hands, and he had access to all documents to which the committee had access.

While in the directorate of intelligence, he had supervision of security education throughout the RCAP. He drafted orders affecting security information and was secretary of the security sub-committee of the Canadian Joint Intelligence Committee which, in turn, was a subcommittee of the chiefs of staff. He was also for a short time a member of a committee on the grading of documents from the standpoint of security."

THE COMMISSIONERS said a page from Col. Zolotov's notebook which Gouzenko supplied referred to one "Poland" as working in Toronto in the intelligence branch and that he gave a map of the ironing schools. Gouzenko also produced a copy of Zolotov's telegram suggesting "Poland" be turned over to NKVD and Moscow's reply that it was not worth while doing so as "Poland" might develop into a good worker.

It was at this point that the commissioners' report remarks that the NKVD, the Russian secret police force, was working in Canada long before 1945. The implication of Moscow's reply is obscure and not clarified further in the commissioners' report.

The commissioners, however, say that while Gouzenko was not able to give a name, Poland was a cover for a real name, Poland was in Toronto in May-June, 1945, and then transferred to Ottawa, and there is no other person by the name of "Poland" who answers to the above.

THE REPORT FURTHER points out that the names of Lunan, Nightingale and Pavlov were entered on the desk telephone and calendar pad belonging to Squadron Leader Poland. Pavlov is the second secretary and consul of Russian Embassy and according to Gouzenko,

All This and Bare Midriff Too

Strapless Bathing Suits in Vogue On Canadian Beaches This Summer

TORONTO, March 30.—(CP)—The Canadian girl will sport a bare midriff sun suit with strapless top when she gambols on the beaches this summer, designers predict.

The top does not require adhesive tape, thumb tacks or iron glue to hold it in place. A little strip of elastic does the trick, reported Designer Nils Salderman.

MOST OF THE SWIM SUITS designed by Rose Marie Reid of Vancouver are two-piece affairs. Her 1945 feature, creating terry-cloth fingertip length coats, also is found in the swifter creations of Montreal's Betty and Maxine.

Mr. Salderman saw the bare midriff styles as a post-war trend. "The war's over, the boys are home, and the girls have been homesome for a long time," he said. "Do I have to find a word for it?"

Warper Dead After Fish Vat Explosion

WINNIPEG, March 30.—(CP)—Clayton Lane, 50, of Winnipeg, died in hospital yesterday from burns suffered when the vat in which he was cooking fish at the Winnipeg Rendering Company, St. Boniface, exploded.

A co-worker, David Cirulnick, 63, also of Winnipeg, suffered leg and face burns.

It is "one and perhaps the chief" of the NKVD men there."

Poland, says the report, appeared with counsel and refused to be sworn, to answer any questions, or to make any explanation although offered the opportunity of seeing the evidence. The commissioners say on the above evidence it seems that Poland has brought himself under the accusation of violating the Official Secrets Act, "although so far as the evidence before us goes, the map indicated by Col. Zolotov's notebook could not appear to have been very important; but with information available to the commissioners, it is clear that Poland is capable of being a traitor to his country."

The commissioners say that this report completes their hearing of evidence of persons detained under the order in council, but they remark that there remain a number of witnesses yet to be heard, "many of whose names are mentioned in the documents placed before the commission by Gouzenko. The names of others they say, 'appear in other documents filed as exhibits or in the evidence of the various witnesses whom we have heard.'" trip continued, "I used by diplomatic means to keep America out. We always considered the tripartite pact a defensive one, with the primary aim of keeping the United States non-belligerent."

When Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor came, it was a surprise even to their ambassador Oshima in Berlin.

The ex-foreign minister gave the tribune his version of the history of the Second Great War—the alliance that practically all Europe, even little Belgium and Luxembourg, was plotting against Germany. Therefore, he said, Hitler "decided he had to strike first."

VON RIBBENTROP spoke of the invasion of Belgium and the Netherlands, saying "I had a sleepless night over these violations of neutrality." But he contended they were unavoidable.

"In the winter of 1940-41," he continued, "Hitler faced this situation: England was not yet ready to make peace. We could not be sure of Italy."

Japan, despite the tripartite pact, Italy had shored herself up as a weak sister. The United States was becoming more hostile to Germany, though we were trying to keep her out of the war. Russia, despite our non-aggression pact, had shown an attitude giving us great misgivings. Hitler figured he might some day have to face Britain and America on one side and Russia on the other moving against Germany. All these reasons made Hitler decide on a preventive war against Russia."

WE'RE SPEAKING OF Your Tomorrow, Too... Thousands of Canadian boys—sons, brothers, husbands—are returning from the wars—returning to what promises to be a happy tomorrow... a tomorrow that many gave their lives to bring about. A tomorrow that may be held back if immoderate or unessential spending brings about inflation... if our desires are not confined to temperate limits... if the many strange ideas and philosophies that are with us today are not carefully considered and moderated to suit our needs and way of living. The real enjoyments and full pleasures of gracious living are possible only to the man who practices moderation—in everything he does. The House of Seagram suggests that we think of tomorrow—and be moderate in all we do.

Major and Minor Notes

By John Oliver

COMMENCING at 3 p.m. tomorrow, the Edmonton Philharmonic Society will give its first concert of the season. Abe Franks will conduct and Noreen Britow, soprano, will be the soloist. This, the second year of activity, is being encouraging. Whereas three concerts formed the "continuation" to the city's musical life in the initial season this year's agenda has called for two. There has been expansion in playing strength and in the scope of music performed. Some of the concertists have been better than others, but the general level has been on a higher plane. Lapins have been doing primarily for lack of attendance at rehearsals. Those concerts at which there has been higher percentage of rehearsal attendance, have shown a correspondingly better standard of performance. This is only to be expected. Even the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra rehearsed, and when a new and difficult work is to be played, the players, who take the home, are familiarize themselves with the intricacies so that the way is smooth, and at rehearsal.

Commons Approves Interim Expenses

OTTAWA, March 30.—(CP)—A wide variety of topics was discussed yesterday in the Commons as members voted supplementary expenditures incurred during the fiscal year ending Sunday and voted to increase the 1947-48 budget to cover expenses in the next two months.

BEFORE MEMBERS switched their attention to money matters, Prime Minister Mackenzie King tabled the third interim report of the Royal commission on espionage. Members paved the way for the introduction of resolutions to bill amending the Militia Act and bill amending the 1947-48 budget to cover expenses in the next two months.

DEFENCE MINISTER Abbott said the Militia Act would be amended to remove the restrictions limiting the peacetime force to 10,000 and to allow the payment of pay and allowances to members of the forces not technically on active service under the act.

FINANCE MINISTER LSLLEY said he could not yet state when the budget will be brought down. Mr. King said that restrictions on the budget will be brought down by day and that the problem was mainly one of transportation. He said the international government committee on refugees will be asked to consider the economic and security council of the United Nations Organization can take over a matter affecting refugees.

THE HOUSE asked by J. C. Coldwell, C.P.R. leader, to consider adoption of the British policy under which disarmed persons in Germany are allowed to join relatives in Britain under the provisions of the War Relocation Act.

VETERANS MINISTER Mackenzie, as house leader, said Canadian veterans are making a great contribution to the provincial war effort agreement between Canada and the United States was $13,000.

Semi-Finals at West Glen District Eliminations End For School Boxing Tourney

District eliminations for the Edmonton school boys boxing and wrestling tournament came to a close Friday night at the Victoria high school gym with a card that featured 13 wrestling and 11 boxing bouts.

Winners in all classes from all schools will meet at West Glen April 4 for the semi-finals and the finals will be held the following evening at the same gym.

It was a big night for the grapplers and sluggers from McClelland school, none of their entrants suffering defeats from outsiders, and the boys with wrestling events in which they entered as well as posing wins in four mill seasons.

Kruger, a paperweight leather-pusher from McClelland, hammered out a technical knock-out over school-mate Rudy Wieder-spiel in the second round of the same school.

Johnny McDermid showed the crowd the calibre of fists mayhem that has given him the better title for the last two years when he wound up the card by posing a TKO over Gordie Wilson of the same school.

Soccer-minded people may be interested in hearing something about the Dominion of Canada Football Association, its formation and other creditable achievements.

The DFA was founded on May 24, 1912, in Toronto, Ont. The first annual general meeting was held in Winnipeg on July 9 of the same year. It was incorporated as a company on Oct. 15, 1923, under the provisions of the Companies Act, 1907.

IT IS TRUE, football was played all over the Dominion long before the DFA was formed, thus it became necessary for Dominion competition which was known at that time as the "Connacht Cup," presented by the Duke of Connacht, then Governor-General of Canada. This competition was confined to amateur clubs, and it was first completed for in 1913. In 1920 the trophy was temporarily withdrawn and replaced by a new one known as the "Football Association Trophy," and presented by the "English FA." In 1927 the competition was opened to both amateur and professional clubs.

The first winner of the Dominion championship was Norwood Wanderers, who repeated their success in the following year. Westminster Royals holds the proud record of being four times winner, being successful in 1929-30, 31-32, 32-33 and 33-34.

Bill Bodnar, who has played a standard game for the West Glen five all season, set a spectacular pace for the victory by kicking up 17 points to cop the evening's scoring laurels. Al Purkiss and Steve Mendry were the stars of the losing squad, Purkiss counting 12 and Mendry 11 points.

With 12 seconds left to play the count was declassified 38-38 when the referee brought home the winning ball.

Golf To Open Tonight Stanley Cup Final

By SYMON NELSON

There is much controversy in golf circles today as to what kind of a putter is to be an aluminum (or malleable) putter, a goose-neck blade putter, or a straight blade putter.

My suggestion is that you select a putter that feels right, one which appeals to you, and you know when it sets down behind the ball.

Most top golfers have had putters which they used for them, fitted for them perfectly.

Jerry Travels, one of the great golfers of his time, went to England to play in the tournament and put up so well with a center-shafted putter that the English golf officials outlawed it.

It was a mechanical device and the resultant accuracy pro and con started one of the hottest international sports controversies of the time.

Millions of words have been written about Bobby Jones' "Calamity Jane" putter which he used during his phenomenal winning streak. Lawson Little still uses the battered old putter with which he won the British and American amateur titles and the United States Open.

Gene Sarazen has a putter which he proudly proclaims has a club face which was tooled down to one-millimeter.

HAROLD MSPADEN had such a hot putter during his 1944 winning streak that he actually started a run on the market for the type of putter he was using at the time. It was an aluminum-headed Al Spaden as a blue goose neck putter. Harold had his putter weighed and weighed 22 ounces. That's a lot of weight for a putter when you consider that Ben Hogan, one of the longest hitters in the game, uses a 14-ounce driver.

There weren't many bad goose putters in use at the time. Harold was putting so well with his putter that a good many of the pros started using them as well as they could buy them. Now half the fields at our tournaments use this model.

It took me several years to find a putter which suited me. In fact, I never did find one among the models on the market which seemed to satisfy me. I had to make one out of an old goose-necked putter that had been kicking around my bag for several years.

THIS PARTICULAR PUTTER was originally a blade affixed with a goose neck by the time I had worked it with a hammer and file in the vice at my shop and put the amount of left on it that I desired. It bore no resemblance to its original form.

I left only a very slight amount of goose neck on the head and then filed the neck of the putter down to where it wasn't quite as large through that part of it. I decided it didn't have as much head on it as I wanted. So I took it to a blacksmith shop and had the head brass welded on the back of it.

I purposely had more brass left on the head than I wanted so I could work it down to where it would look good to my eye. It was tedious work, but I finally got it to where I wanted it. I took it out, practiced with it, found it suited me perfectly and have been using it constantly during the past three years.

THE MCGREGOR PEOPLE, who make my club, have made a cast of this putter and when they resume the manufacture of golf clubs they are going to put it in production. In the meantime, I keep close tabs on that sweet-swinging putter of mine.

It took too long to get one that felt just right to risk losing it or having it stolen. I won't breathe easily until I have a dozen built to the same weight and specifications and can lay my hands on them at a moment's notice. That's what my putter means to me.

Padgham Takes British Golf Event Montreal Junior

ST. ANNES-ON-THE-SEA, England, March 30. (Reuters)—All Padgham, former winner of the British open championship and Ryder Cup player against the United States, Friday won the first post-war Daily Mail golf tournament with a 72-hole aggregate of 28 over at most, six games. Irwin was happy to see Bruns beat Detroit to reach the finals Thursday night and he considered it a lucky break for his team.

The Montrealers expect to take the best-of-five series in five or at most, six games. Irwin was happy to see Bruns beat Detroit to reach the finals Thursday night and he considered it a lucky break for his team.

"The boys have been travelling at a terrific pace so far and are in the victory mood over the series. They said it was a mechanical device and the resultant accuracy pro and con started one of the hottest international sports controversies of the time."

Manager Art Ross of Boston was conscious of that fact too and asked that the series start here Sunday instead of Saturday so as to allow his team more time to rest, but after long-distance telephone conversations between Ross, president Mervyn (Red) Dutton of the National Hockey League and manager Tommy Gordon of Canadiens, it was decided to begin the series here tonight.

Weather permitting an RAF soccer team will play North Shore Legion an exhibition game at Clarke Stadium (east side) on Sunday afternoon commencing at 2:30. All Legion players are asked to report at Canadian Legion at 1 p.m.

Agony Tommy Gordon of Canadiens, it was decided to begin the series here tonight.

Missionary Work Needs Extra Aid

Missionary work undertaken by the Anglican church, both at home and abroad, urgently needs additional support to cope with present day problems, and to accomplish this the Anglican Aid Appeal has included an amount of $4,000,000 in its total budget of the campaign for $4,200,000, which will be made throughout Canada from May 12 to 19.

THIS EXPLANATION was given at Edmonton Diocesan headquarters today, in order to acquaint Anglicans with the various phases of work which the Anglican church must undertake. A sum of $1,000,000 will enable the church to provide replacement of lost personnel in 15 missionary dioceses in Canada, extend its missionary work in self-supporting dioceses and also permit appointment of additional clergy for missionary work.

Provision is also made for establishment of an episcopal endowment fund, a Sectors church extension fund, church work in the Arctic, for work among the Indians in the Mackenzie river and James Bay area, and equipment for Indian schools.

WORK IN CHINA and India, where great opportunities confront the church, will also be undertaken and financed out of this item in the budget, while minimum stipends

Young People Seek Field Secretary

The young people of the United Church of Canada in Alberta are aiming to obtain a field secretary to assist in the carrying on of the work in this province.

The Rev. Robert A. MacIntyre, field secretary for the province, on his recent visit to Alberta, so inspired the young people that a great deal of work has been done in his province that it was immediately resolved upon to approach the church conference in May, and ask that a field secretary be appointed.

During the war many unions ceased to operate and it is felt there is a huge organization task ahead. If the future of the world is in the hands of its young people, youth must train for its calling.

Tuxis Group Has Dinner and Social

The Eskrine "Crusader" Social group entertained the Spruce Grove Tuxis boys at a dinner and social on Wednesday evening. Following the dinner, which was served in the Eskrine United church basement, an address of welcome was given by Dave Elliott, leader of the Crusaders. George Bremner of Spruce Grove replied, stating that he hoped this event would be the first of many such friendly meetings.

COMPETITIVE GAMES, a devotional service and a debate were given by Dave Elliott, leader of the Tuxis, on the subject: "Be it resolved that the debate was held and lost thus never to have loved at all."

The debate provided some fine humor and Spruce Grove, for the affirmative, were declared winners as the Eskrine team withdrew. The Rev. A. W. Magee of Stony Plain was chairman for the debate.

The dinner and activities were planned by Roy "Scotty" Thomson, Bill Dalby, Glenn Malcolm, Eddie McMurdo, Dave Elliott, and Russ Hamilton (mentor of the Crusaders).

THE SPRUCE GROVE boys mentioned in and are planning to invite the Eskrine group for a reciprocal visit in the near future. The Crusaders were pleased to have with them again at this social, Bill and Russ, who have been absent for the past five months due to illness.

Alberta's crippled children look to the Red Cross for help. Nearly five thousand have been treated and helped to overcome their handicaps at the Junior Red Cross Crippled Children's Hospital. The new larger hospital, which will soon be built, will make greater facilities more widely available to these little people who bear the burden of deformed bodies and useless limbs.

Another needed service that the Red Cross plans to provide is a free blood transfusion service. Blood donor clinics and blood banks will be set up and maintained all across Canada, making this life-saving service freely available to all who need it.

Crippled children, victims of disaster, people faced with hardship or emergency, look to the Red Cross for relief and comfort. We cannot fail them. What Your Church Is Doing

Weekly Fellowship Suppers Are Popular Church Feature

By HELEN FERRIS

Weekly prayer meetings that take the form of fellowship suppers are an unusually interesting innovation of McDonald Baptist church.

The suppers were begun last year in December when the pastor, the Rev. Stewart Trites, adopted the idea from a Calgary minister. They were an immediate success.

places at the table each time, for instance, thereby creating a permanent family atmosphere. We were impressed with the spirit of happy informality, the absence of the old-fashioned "socials," that pervades these gatherings. Conversation flowed in an easy, friendly rhythm all around us, and a sense of harmonious unity prevailed throughout.

The fellowship dinners begin at 7.30, devotions at 7.15, and the programs at 7.45.

REMAINING SEATED were the members join in responsive reading, the singing of hymns—the first being chosen by the minister, and the others by the congregation—and in spontaneous prayer led by laymen and women.

The programs consist of addresses by the pastor and visiting ministers of various denominations, moving pictures, plays and musical comedy. This week the film, "The Power of God" was shown. Next week there will be a mission study led by Mr. Trites, telling the story of British missions to Germany and Hungary.

THE SERVICES CLOSE with a prayer, a hymn, and the benediction at 8.15 so that members may attend meetings of the various church organizations.

The weekly suppers are suspended for the summer months, ending the second week in May and beginning again after Labor Day in September.

Their spirit of fellowship is continued, however, as the people work together in the various church organizations.

There is no LAUNDERING of table-linen—serviettes are used, and newpapers for tablecloths, which are neatly rolled up and disposed of after the meal.

The cook washes the dishes, assisted by the caretaker. We were told during a recent visit to the church that the purpose of these Wednesday night dinners is not to raise money, but to draw the congregation together in a closer bond of fellowship and worship through the week.

The weekly suppers are suspended for the summer months, ending the second week in May and beginning again after Labor Day in September.

Their spirit of fellowship is continued, however, as the people work together in the various church organizations.

There is no LAUNDERING of table-linen—serviettes are used, and newpapers for tablecloths, which are neatly rolled up and disposed of after the meal.

The cook washes the dishes, assisted by the caretaker. We were told during a recent visit to the church that the purpose of these Wednesday night dinners is not to raise money, but to draw the congregation together in a closer bond of fellowship and worship through the week.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By REVEREND W. A. FERGUSON, M.A. DD
Principal of the Diocesan Theological College of Montreal

I Believe in Jesus Christ

THE Creeds are brief statements of the essentials of the Christian Faith. Each clause in them must be carefully studied if we are to get its full meaning and none more than this one: "I believe in Jesus Christ."

This is the central affirmation of the Christian's belief. Every thing about him, unlike the animals, it is simply not true (though some people seem to think so) that he has food and comfort he will be satisfied and forever at peace. He is so made that he can only find satisfaction in God. In St. Augustine's famous words: "Thou O God hast made us for Thyself and our hearts are restless until they find rest in Thee."

"Man is a creature always seeking finite satisfaction for infinite desires." His restlessness and dissatisfaction is the strangest thing about him. Unlike the animals, it is simply not true (though some people seem to think so) that he has food and comfort he will be satisfied and forever at peace. He is so made that he can only find satisfaction in God. In St. Augustine's famous words: "Thou O God hast made us for Thyself and our hearts are restless until they find rest in Thee."

The basic truth upon which all spiritual religion rests, I.e., that it is not mere outward conformity or ceremonial observance is this, that there dwells at the heart of the universe as its Source and Sustainer a Living Spirit whom we call God; that though His thoughts are higher than our thoughts and His ways than our ways, though He is far beyond our comprehension, yet He has a Father's heart; that He loves man and has created man skin to himself, and that our true destiny and satisfaction is to know Him and love Him and do His will. THIS IS THE TRUTH WHICH ALTERS EVERYTHING; which opposes all Naturalistic Evolutionary creeds and transcends all "Human" views.

But men will ask: How do we know that it is true? What good is it to us to profess such a belief unless we can reach Him, and know and understand Him? The Christian answer to these profoundest and most important of all questions is found in Jesus Christ. We know well that the Eternal is beyond our human comprehension, but here in Christ we have a personal being, near to us, made in our likeness, in a perfect human form we come to know God. There is no other way by which we can really know Him. Only we may discern Him in the splendor and beauty of Nature or hear His voice at second hand in the Messages of the Prophets, or in the songs of Poets, but He can only be known in the person of Jesus Christ. In the mind and character of Jesus Christ we learn what God is like. He, the highest of all time spoken of in the Scriptures, is the only one who has lived in human conditions, hath at the end of these days spoken unto us in His Son.

Belief in Jesus Christ means not that there is another God beside the Eternal, nor that Jesus is the best and greatest of the Prophets, but rather that He is one with God, and in Him God has come in the flesh, has entered into human life, limited Himself by human conditions and willingly subjected Himself to human infirmity and death, in order that He may save us, and that we may know Him who know His life is eternal.

Editor's note: This message was especially written for use in connection with the Anglican Advent Appeal.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

ONE OF MY PET PHOBIAS is that so-called infant who is the baby cries, and the parents think there is no reason for it, the baby should be allowed to "cry it out."

Does a child of four months know why he is being made to cry? I don't think so. The baby cries because he is hungry, or because he is tired, or because he is uncomfortable.

WHAT DOES SHE GAIN? She loses time for the first morning feeding. She loses time for the first night feeding. She loses time for the first day feeding.

THE BABY who has been used to sleeping all night from 8 to 10 or 12, doesn't wake and cry in the middle of the night. There must be something about the present way of feeding which is not satisfactory as it was when the baby was a newborn child.

IF THE BABY is breast-fed, the mother may suspect that the baby is not getting enough milk. The baby is not getting enough milk because the mother is not getting enough sleep.

AGAIN, it may be that solid foods are being fed to the baby too early. The baby is not getting enough milk because the mother is not getting enough sleep.

IF THE BABY is breast-fed, the mother may suspect that the baby is not getting enough milk. The baby is not getting enough milk because the mother is not getting enough sleep.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Children Don't Stoooge But Still Love Parents

A Common Gripe Among Parents Is That Their Children Do Not Love Them As Much and Show Them Same Respect Youngsters Used to Do

Remember the right to live their own lives in their own ways, instead of cutting them to Mama's and Papa's patterns.

BUT ALL OF THIS doesn't mean that the children do not love and respect their parents. I doubt if any generation of youngsters in the whole history of the world has ever been more devoted to their parents, or felt a greater sense of responsibility to them than the present ones.

AND NOW look at the young people, the aggrieved parents, the children who are so different from the children of yesterday.

Six rooms in all with two baths, seven closets and a utility closet. The kitchen has one porch entrance and one side service entry leading to the basement stairs. All have bedroom picture windows; the garage has overhead doors; and a recreation room is provided under the living room.

Road Ahead

Life is the growing demand for more specialized and technical training. Practically every profession, every branch of industry and business, requires serious shortages of trained personnel. The trained men and women before we can have the industrial expansion required to permit us to increase our production to the point where we are able to produce more goods and materials than we need to enable us to offer a higher standard of living for all our people.

This shortage is partly the result of the fact that most of the men who would ordinarily be preparing for these positions during the past six years have been in the service instead of attending universities and training schools.

So we have a big backlog of training to catch up. Part of the shortage is accounted for by the normal development of technological processes, the expansion of our industry and increases in our population.

INCREASED mechanization of industry of all kinds and the development of labor-saving machinery has switched the emphasis from unskilled labor to the need for semi-skilled and skilled men. Today there is little demand for the man who has only a willingness to work to offer to employers. This is an age when the division of labor has become highly complex and specialized. The pick and shovel have been replaced by the mechanical digger.

In the early days of this country when we were developing out the unexploited and the unneeded man in modern society. This is a thought which has already occurred to our educators, and today in our schools we are beginning to teach children practical and useful things, instead of just Latin and literature.

The expansion of our vocational training and technical schools and universities which has been necessitated by the sudden influx of veterans who are of great benefit to the younger generation. The time they are ready for advanced training the veterans will be graduated and passed on to take their place in our civilian life.

The facilities prepared for them will be available to greater numbers of our young people than ever before. This means more trained men and more specialists. This means we will be able to produce even more goods. This can mean a steadily expanding economy and an improved standard of living for all.

HOWEVER there are many problems which still challenge us. There is the continuing problem of distribution, which does a through the ages has proved to be a stumbling block, a barrier after generation. Perhaps this world, which was ever known to be a problem, which is the key to our future happiness.

Veteran Soldier and Policeman Leaves Mounties at End of Month Retiring

A veteran of the armies of two different countries and of the same number of police forces in the long career of Sgt. E. F. McCarthy, suite 212 El Mirador Apartments, whose retirement from the RCMP is expected to take place on Saturday by Assistant Commissioner W. F. W. Hancock, is expected to retire from the RCMP.

Sgt. McCarthy, who has been in charge of the guardroom at the "mountie" headquarters here for the past three years, has served with both the American and Canadian armies besides putting in 34 years as a police officer with the RCMP and the old Alberta Provincial Police.

He gleefully admits that being able to "sleep in" instead of rolling out bright and early each morning will be a real pleasure, but thinks that he may miss the "gay camaraderie" of the redcoats.

"Nothing very exciting ever happened to me," the Sgt. said when queried regarding his 34 years as a policeman, but laughingly admitted that two women were responsible for "most of the excitement" he ever had to make.

DURING THE WINTER of 1930, while stationed at Fort Vermilion, he had to take an insane woman "out" to Peace River. The 60-mile round trip by dog team and in 40 degrees below zero weather. A second trip under similar circumstances was made four years later.

He has been a great advocate of air travel ever since he was stationed at "Wop" May made their famous flight to Fort Vermilion in January 1929, carrying the first automobile for delivery. "It took 13 days to get word to Peace River that we needed the service," he recalled. "But it took them only two days to fly in with the plane." They had to land the trip in an old Avian biplane—it was a real flying feat in those days.

BORN AT WATSON, ONT. in 1890, he attended school at Toronto and Hamilton. Filled with a desire for adventure, he went across the border at the age of 17 to join the New York National Guard. The following year he was off to the Philippine Islands with the U.S.

Youth Conference Is Closed in City

Open forum discussion on problems related to juvenile delinquency Friday afternoon brought to a close a two-day conference in the gymnasium, RCMP barracks, of mounted policemen from all parts of the province.

The program was headed by "K" Division, RCMP, to deal with various phases of youth work. About 20 policemen attended and were asked to return to their detachments with the information gained for the use of interested members of their respective communities.

PARTICIPATING in the open forum were some of the speakers who were discussed conference sessions. Among these were the Rev. Father Foran of St. Anthony's Church, Brother Asarias of St. Basil's, and W. H. Swift, of the provincial department of education, Frank Drayton of the city relief department, and others.

After serving in the military and police forces, he was transferred to the 113 Battalion at Leithbridge, B.C. under overseas and served in France with the First Canadian Army.

REJOINING THE RCMP in 1931, he was stationed in southern Alberta on border patrol duties at Coquille and Peace River. He was "re-called" into 1936 when he left the "mounties" to enlist with the 113 Battalion at Leithbridge, B.C. under overseas and served in France with the First Canadian Army.

Yugoslav Plan Sunday Meeting

Yugoslav claims to the city of Trieste and other territories bordering the north of Italy will form the basis for some of the discussions to be heard in the Memorial Hall, Sunday, April 21, 1946, when the Edmonton Yugoslav association presents its country's side for the reformation of Canada who may wish to follow the discussions.

Speakers are expected to include Premier Ernest Manning, Mayor Harry Ainlay and Harper Prowse, M.L.A. Chairman of the meeting will be Steve Sekul.

Trieste, Italy and Goiza represented part of the booty given to Italy when she entered the 1914-18 war on behalf of Allies, but Italy only wanted the territory to form a springboard for the invasion of the rest of Europe, Mr. Sekul contends.

Mr. Sekul feels that the territory should be returned to Yugoslavia not only because the country is rightly entitled to it, but in return for the atrocities and the loss of life which resulted from the invasion by Italians and Germans during the last war.
